Promevo provides numerous professional consulting, support and education services. They specialize in services for the Lotus product family, including Workplace and the IBM WebSphere product family.

Promevo's technical service offering has grown from a beginning base of groupware and workflow consulting solutions into products, services, and custom training for a broad spectrum of groupware, internet, client-server and multi-tiered application development technologies. This growth has been brought on as a result of observation, understanding, and partnership of our clients, and how they conduct their business.
